It is curious to note that both the Acting Governor and Acting Attorney-General rely on this section as a safeguard for their Chinese club, but which we look upon as its snare. Perhaps the difference of opinion can be explained by the fact that those two gentlemen have never done us the honour of visiting one of our clabs. There was often severe pain in my head and over my eyes, and an almost constant sense of sickness. The sain gradually got dry and yellow, the region of the stomach and and warmth appeared to be ebbing out of me like the water out of a river at low tide.

"In June 1849, whilst living at Moredown, Bourn mouth. I had a wores attack then any J had before. I was taken with a feeling of cramp, as if pine and needles were running into me, al over my body. I could not mave, and had to lie beluless in bod. The doot it was sent for, and attended me every day, but did not seem to know what to make of my case. In fact, he was penaled and finally said, I don't really know what your complaint is."

... I trembled and shook and felt as if I should fall to pieces. I was first hot and then cold, and so dreadfully nervous I could not bear any one in the room with me, and yet I did not wish them far away in case I should call out for help. Every time one of these spasms came on I said to myself. 'I am sure I shall never get up again.' not retoin even that on my stomach. By this time I was nothing but skin and bone. My legs went olammy, as if I had no blood left in me. My memory completely failed. I never expected to recover, and that was the opinion of my friends. After they had called to see me Captain Goddard, will be despatched for the they would go away saying, 'Sho will never get better. My hoad ashed so dreadfully I thought Davinger.

friend Mrs. West, of Bournomonth, called and asked what I was taking. I said, 'Oh I'm tired of taking things; it's no use; I shall die. Then she told me she was once ill much as I was, and was oured by Mother Soigel's Carative Syrup Well. I said. I'll try it if you will send for it' She did so, and I seem d to feel better on taking the first dose, and after three days I was able to walk across the room, and by the end of the week I went downstairs. Now I am well as over. All my pervousness has left me, and "I want to say finally, that I know about Mother Seigel's Carative Syrup, and should have tried it years before if certain acquaintances hadn't said, 'Oh, don't take it, for it will do you no good. They said that because it was sdyertised, not because they knew for themse ve-It was bad advice for me, and cost me years of torture. From what I have said-which is but part of my story—the people may infer what I think of this remedy. I thank God that 1 did resort to it at last before it was too late," (Signed) Mrs. Jane Foster, Darracott Road. Pokesdown, Bournemouth, Haute. March, 1890. It is only necessary to add that the melady from which Mrs. Foster suffered was indigestion, dyspepsis, and nervous prostration. Brought on originally by grief and shock at her husband's sudden and violent death, her system did not rally -until Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup removed the torpor of the digestive organs, and thus enriched the blood and fed the nerves. It slways has this effect in like cases. We can only regret that she foolishly progrestinated in the matter of using it. Her statement of facts may be relied upon, as the case has been thoroughly and impartially investigated. | 2175-1

There was something infinitely pathetic inthe stony expression that sat on the face of one so fair and young, as she sat with her eyes fixed on the glowing coals. For Winifred Denison was still young-she was barely twenty-too young, one would have thought, to have known much of sorrow. Yet she had been called to bear the shattering of life's brightest illusions. and, what is worst of all to bear, the loss of faith, whilst standing yet on the very threshold of budding womanhood.

As she sat by the fire, unmindful of the rain that was being driven furiously against the window-panes by the wild westerly wind that roared and shricked dismally round the chimney tons, she was living her life over again, and wondering what it might have been if Captain Denison had not crossed her path. A hard membrane formed in the little sufferer's throat, and in three days the end came, when, after terrible gaspings for breath, the child died in his mother's arms.

. Only that afternoon the little body had been conveyed to its last resting-place, and since the funeral Winifred had remained sitting before the lire, thinking over the past and revolving plans for the future, while her husband was employed more agreeably to his tastes in the well-appointed billiard-room of the hotel.

Winifred had rejected all her husband's attempts to rouse her from the apathetic stillness Gives an instantaneous, brilliant, and elastic into which she fell on the child's death. INTIMALENS NOW ON SALE. IMPERIAL QUARTO. PURCHONARY DICTIONARY DICTIONARY.

WITH THE PURTY AND MANDARIN

PRONUNCIATION.

An Angle-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises to for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best uringfule hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously. attained, and dispensing with those yest margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore charac-

torized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration :-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli-oations and equivalents of different words which [2433 have one general meaning. Of these examples | Kong Senc, British str., 862, R. Jones, Dec. 11, this work contains more than five times as Kumamoto Marc, Jap. str., 1,240, R. Pender many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement the work is so complete, that a reference to it pages enables a person who understands English Mogul, British str., 1,827, Johnson, Dec. 11, to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives Namos, British str., 863, ----, Dec. 11, themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. Nanzing, British str. 509, To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion. Oce-nic, British str., 3,808, Smith, Dec. 10

It comprises upwards of two thousand large 4 Vols. IMPERIAL QUARTO, Price, $20.
